DETAILED ACTION

1. This is in response to petition filed September 26, 2006 under 37 C.F.R. §1.181, the petition has been treated as request to reconsider the final Office Action.
2. Claims 1-101 are pending in the present application. Claims 1-51, 99 and 100 have been withdrawn.
3. Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is found persuasive by the Office and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.

Election/Restrictions

4. Applicant's election of Invention II claims 52-98 and 101 in the reply filed on June 28, 2006 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Drawings

5. The drawings were received on February 21, 2006. These drawings are acceptable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

6. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

7. Claims 52-98 and 101 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The language of independent claims 52, 77 and 101 are directed to an abstract idea and do not present a concrete tangible result. The language of the claims are directed to non-functional descriptive material which is non-statutory and simply recite an arrangement of data as opposed to a realized function. Claims 53-76 and 78-98 are rejected based on dependency.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

8. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

9. Claims 63 and 78-85 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 63 the limitation "wherein information streams include text, audio, video, multimedia, and executable code streaming media" lacks proper antecedent basis.

Regarding claim 78, the limitation “the group of modules” lacks proper antecedent basis. Claims 79-85 are rejected based on dependency.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

10. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

11. Claims 52-55 and 77 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Abe et al. US Patent 7,089,227 B2.

Regarding claim 52, Abe et al. teaches a relevancy determination unit [note: Figure 1] comprising:

a first interface receiving information relating to a reception of keywords [note: RECEPTION UNIT (42) Figure 1];
a processor for calculating current reception patterns and previous reception patterns in response to the reception of information relating to the reception of keywords [note: Information Processing Device Figure 13; RETREIVING PROCESS (44) Figure 1; and col. 5 lines 40-52];

a storage unit, coupled to the first interface and processor, for storing current reception patterns, previous reception patterns and information relating to the reception of keywords [note: buffer (43) Figure 1; and col. 5 lines 33-39 "buffer unit 43 stores the retrieval condition and the terminal device information received by the retrieval condition reception unit"].

12. Regarding claims 53-55, "wherein the processor is operable to determine a relevancy" [note: col. 15 lines 45-55]; "at least one keyword is extracted" [note: col. 12 lines 45-59]; "wherein the first interface is coupled to a search engine for receiving terms extracted from a client query" [note: Figure 1; col. 16 line 43 through col. 17 line 18].

13. The limitations of claim 77 have been addressed in claim 52 except for the following: "a search engine for receiving and processing information streams" [note: col. 15 line 45 through col. 16 line 16; also note Figure 1].

Response to Arguments

14. Applicant's arguments filed June 28, 2006 and February 21, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In the response filed June 28, 2006 Applicant did not specifically point out the error in the restriction and did not state that it was a traversal. Applicant simply argued that non-elected independent claims 1 and 31 were amended to include the limitation of elected claim 52, and that claim 52 was allowable and therefore Invention I should be rejoined. This argument is not found persuasive for the following reasons: (1) The claims are still different in scope. Note claim 52 is claiming a relevancy determination unit or data structure, whereas the non-elected amended claims (i.e. claims 1 and 31) are determining relevancy of real time received terms by implementing an update and comparison procedure. (2) Claim 52 is not allowable and has been rejected under 35 USC 101, please note rejection supra. (3) Also elected independent claims 77 and 101, were not addressed in the response and are also different in scope than the amended non-elected claims. Amended non-elected claims do not include the limitation of a search engine to process a query.

Applicant's amendment filed February 21, 2006 overcomes the rejections cited in the previous Office Action mailed August 17, 2005; however a new rejection has been cited.

15. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 52-98 and 101 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

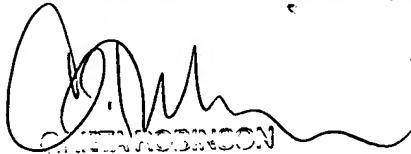

In the response Applicant stated support for the limitations rejected within the disclosure and amended claims.
